Categories of beliefs. Foundationalism holds that all beliefs must be justified in order to be believed. Beliefs therefore fall into two categories: Beliefs that are properly basic, in that they do not depend upon justification of other beliefs, but on something outside the realm of belief (a "non-doxastic justification") Beliefs that derive from one or more basic beliefs, and therefore depend ...

A collective is a group of entities that share or are motivated by at least one common issue or interest, or work together to achieve a common objective. [citation needed] Collectives can differ from cooperatives in that they are not necessarily focused upon an economic benefit or saving, but can be that as well. The term "collective" is sometimes used to describe a species as a whole "for ...
